

START WORK IN CAMPAIGN FOR HUGHES

TALKS WITH FRIENDS

CANDIDATE ARRIVES IN NEW YORK EARLY TODAY—WHERE HUGHES LEAGUE WILL BE FORMED.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, June 12.—The first organized political move in the furtherance of the campaign for the election of Hughes was announced today upon the arrival of the republican candidate here from Washington. It was the revival of the Hughes Alliance, an organization of republicans, democrats and independent voters which came into existence during the second campaign for Mr. Hughes for governor of New York in 1908. The announcement was made by Travis Whitney, public agent of Hughes, one of the first to meet Hughes on his arrival on the early morning train.

Organize Hughes League.

Mr. Whitney accompanied the presidential candidate to the Hotel Astor, where Hughes established his headquarters. He said the same men who were identified with the Hughes Alliance have decided together to work in New York state the election of their candidate, probably under the name of the Hughes Nonpartisan League. The organization, he said, would establish headquarters here and co-operate with the various republican organizations. He added his organization planned to provide Mr. Hughes with personal headquarters for his visit through New York.

Mr. Whitney received newspapermen during the forenoon, but declined to discuss his plans. He was asked how it felt "to be drafted for the biggest job in the world," he replied, "there are certain circumstances under which a matter of duty is supremely clear and which leaves no ground for hesitation in this situation was no question in this situation as far as I should do. I did it, and in my announcement to the people, I endeavored to make my attitude clear."

"I came here to hold consultations. In regard to arrangements for the future, I can say nothing in respect to details at this time."

Mr. Whitney posed for moving picture and camera men.

There was a procession of local republicans, and Mr. Hughes spent the forenoon in receiving them. Shortly before 1 o'clock George W. Wickerson appeared, and was immediately ushered into Mr. Hughes' room, where he went into conference with the candidate. Mr. Wickerson declined to state the object of his visit, or to discuss rumors that he was acting as mediator in plans to obtain progressive support for Hughes. He reiterated his denial he had been in connection recently with Colonel Roosevelt.

Arrives in New York.

Charles E. Hughes came here today for his first conference. He arrived from Washington on the 10 o'clock train, and went to a hotel where he will spend the day. He said he had nothing to tell now regarding his plans, but promised to see newspaper men later in the day.

Although the police department had been notified of the republican candidate's coming and had sent detectives to meet his train, his arrival at such an early hour was unexpected. He was met by Public Service Commissioner Travis W. Whitney, and William R. Wilson, a New York state senator and former member of the public service commission.

Many of the leaders who are expected to talk with Mr. Hughes during his stay in New York, had not returned from the Chicago convention. Mr. Hughes did not say how long he intended to stay here.

Mr. Hughes' secretary, Lawrence A. Green, accompanied him from Washington. His first caller after he reached his hotel was Robert Fuller, who was his secretary when he was governor of New York.

One of the questions before Hughes and his friends today was the location of summer headquarters.

Silent on His Plans.

"I have nothing to say on politics at this time," said Mr. Hughes upon meeting newspaper men who met him on the ferry boat which brought him to the Hudson.

This was in response to a question as to whether he would see Colonel Roosevelt during his stay here. Mr. Hughes declined to make any plans for the summer, continued the presidential candidate. "New York, by the way, is where I belong, and I shall be back here."

Mr. Hughes admitted there were certain "important matters to discuss" but efforts by newspaper men to return at this time what his special plans were proved futile.

Just as Mr. Hughes went aboard the ferry the sun came out for the first time in nearly a week, and the atmosphere of the New York sky was evidently a pleasing sight to him.

His presence on the train that brought him from Washington was unexpected to all but a few of his fellow passengers. When he left the train he attracted no attention but aboard the ferry he was recognized by commuters coming to the city from their Jersey homes.

Mr. Hughes went directly to his hotel and after ordering copies of all morning papers retired to his room.

Allen Favors Hughes.

St. Louis, June 12.—Henry W. Allen, former progressive leader, here is a newspaper correspondent reporting the democratic convention, who has announced his support of Mr. Hughes. He expressed the belief that Colonel Roosevelt will take an active part in the Hughes campaign.

Mr. Allen said that former Representative Murdock, chairman of the progressive national committee, was in St. Louis today, and according to success, Colonel Roosevelt as progressive standard-bearer if the colonel finally won the nomination.

Support From Progressives.

Which the honor is too important for any man to worry about the same man he is going to support."

ROOSEVELT TO GIVE SUPPORT TO HUGHES

COLONEL DECLINES NOMINATION BY PROGRESSIVE PARTY AND SAYS HE IS OUT OF POLITICS.

Choice of Progressive Standard Bearer Is Left to National Committee.—Parker for Vice President.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Chicago, June 12.—Convention week with its excitement and anxiety has passed. One outstanding result was evident to the departing delegates, Charles Evans Hughes, the nominee of the republican party, will receive the support of a practically united party and will enjoy the passive, if not active, support of Theodore Roosevelt of Oyster Bay.

Roosevelt's message to the progressive national convention delivered at the late afternoon session Saturday, in which he stated he could not accept the nomination and suggesting that the matter of a candidate be left to the national committee, is taken on all sides as an admission of the acceptance of Hughes by the colonel. It came as a blow to the progressives, who were inclined to feel resentment for a time that they had been betrayed by Perkins and other party leaders. Without the leadership of Roosevelt the progressive party virtually ceases to exist. With Roosevelt supporting Hughes, the demagogue of the Bull Moose organization is sounded.

When the progressive party adjourned late Saturday, after naming Roosevelt for president and Colonel John M. Parker of New Orleans for vice president, it was left to the national committee of the party to decide on a standard bearer to succeed Roosevelt, or if it was deemed wise, to insist that the colonel make the run regardless of his message declining the honor. In this understanding there was no consolation for the ardent progressives, for they felt that without Roosevelt, the party had collapsed. Their only recourse was to swing to Hughes. This they stand ready to do, for the most part, acting as they always have under the direction of their founder and only real leader, Theodore Roosevelt.

For the departing republican delegates, the news of Roosevelt's virtual retirement from the political arena was received with unconcealed joy. His virtual acceptance of Hughes boosts republican stock to the sky. The point of the contest between the progressives and republicans combined the election of Hughes seems assured. The similarity of the progressive and G. O. P. platforms is pointed to, showing the agreement of the two factions on matters of principle. The statement of Hughes delivered to the republican convention leaves no doubt as to the stand of the candidate: With Roosevelt, he said, he would be Roosevelt one of the week's possibilities, with a predicted friendly outcome, the reality of a reunited republican party is admitted. Harmony has again been established, the great object of the prolonged conference of convention week has been attained. The one statement or message more potent in its power to bring this about than the Roosevelt message of Saturday afternoon in which he declined the honors of the progressive party. It was as follows:

To the Progressive Convention:

I am very grateful for the honor you confer upon me by nominating me as president. I cannot accept it at this time. I do not know the attitude of the candidate of the republican party toward the vital questions of the day.

Therefore, if you desire an immediate decision, I must decline the nomination.

But if you prefer, if I suggest that my condition refusal to run be placed in the hands of the progressive national committee.

Mr. Hughes' statements, when he made them, shall be accepted. I am satisfied they can so notify the progressive party and at the same time determine on whatever action we may see fit to take to meet the needs of the country.

Theodore Roosevelt.

DEFENDANT'S FATHER IS AGAIN ON STAND

E. O. Orpet Resumes Testimony This Morning in Trial of His Son for Sweetheart's Murder.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Waukegan, June 12.—The trial of Will Orpet, charged with the murder of his former sweetheart, Marion Lambert, was continued today with the resumption of the testimony of E. O. Orpet, father of the defendant. Mr. Orpet was called to the stand on Friday and went through a long course of questioning by the state, which has not been finished when court adjourned, until today.

It was expected that Mrs. Orpet and Mrs. Frank Lambert, mother of the dead girl, will be called to the stand after completion of Mr. Orpet's examination.

One important part as viewed by the defense was brought out today in a brief cross examination of E. O. Orpet, father of the defendant. It concerned the disposal of the stock of cyanide of potassium which the elder Orpet, as gardener of a big estate, kept in the greenhouse.

Mr. Orpet, questioned by Ralph F. Potter of the defense, stated a month before the death of Marion he instructed an assistant to throw the cyanide away as it had spoiled. The assistant neglected to do so.

The statement comprised the one point of the examination. Direct examination was concluded by State's Attorney Dady. Mr. Orpet, halted frequently by objections of the defense, stated his son did not stop under the paternal roof on the night of Feb. 8 and 9. The girl's body was found on the 10th in the snow where it had lain the previous night.

The remainder of his testimony was on minor points.

NEWEST BATTLESHIP COMMISSIONED TODAY

Superdreadnaught Pennsylvania to Be Commanded by Captain H. B. Wilson.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Norfolk, Va., June 12.—The new superdreadnaught Pennsylvania came to the Norfolk navy yards from her builders at Newport News, and was commissioned today by the United States navy with Captain H. B. Wilson commanding. She is considered by American experts the most powerful warship afloat, displacing 32,000 tons, 260 feet long, 35 feet beam, and more than twenty knots an hour sea trials.

BEGIN PROBE TODAY OF GASOLINE PRICES

Federal Trade Commission Conducts Investigation.—Oil Refining Experts Ready to Testify.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, June 12.—Inquiry into the advance of the price of gasoline was begun today by the federal trade commission with representatives of the principal oil refining concerns on hand ready to testify.

Independent oil jobbers testified today before the federal trade commission, they were unable to buy gasoline from the refineries except in small quantities, and that in spite of the increasing prices of last year, their actual profit had been no greater than in former years.

The scramble of the selling branch of the industry to keep up with increases of the refiners, had so unsettled the trade, the witnesses said, that those who had been able to withhold their gasoline from the market could show a much greater profit.

In many cases, they declared, jobbers were forced to order from refiners at higher prices than they were then receiving from their customers, depending for their profits on increases which came before the refiners sold them their lot.

DEFENDS STATEMENT MADE TO ROOSEVELT

Dr. Zierath of Sheboygan Believes Germans in Wisconsin Are Loyal

Sheboygan, June 12.—Dr. W. S. Zierath, whose letter to Colonel Roosevelt commended his anti-German alliance statement in St. Louis, was given such wide publicity last week, and which has been bitterly excoriated in Sheboygan, issued a statement today upholding his letter to Colonel Roosevelt and denouncing Congressmen Burk and Edward Voigt, republican candidates for congress, in this district, and members of the German American alliance.

Dr. Zierath declares he has been asked to make the race for congress, and although he has not fully determined what he will do, he declared, "he may do so to prove his statement, that the Germans of Wisconsin are still loyal Americans."

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Milwaukee, June 12.—The two-year-old son of Mrs. Violette Pairinos is dying at a hospital, following an explosion of a can of gasoline, which he tipped over a hot stove today captured. The mother extinguished the flames, but not before the child's clothing had been burned off his body. The family, including four other small children, live in squallor quarters on Wells street.

RESUME CONFERENCE ON RAILROAD WAGES

Representatives of Leading Companies and Employes' Unions Discuss Possibility of Settlement.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, June 12.—Representatives of the chief railroads of the United States and of the unions of railroad employes resumed today their conference over questions of wages and hours of work after an adjournment Thursday. The delay was due to the demand by railroad officials for a few days to prepare answers to questions submitted by labor leaders concerning the effect of proposals made by railroad companies.

The conference between the representatives of railroads and their 350,000 employes called to avert a threatened general strike, came to a sudden halt shortly after resuming the session, when the railroads submitted two counter proposals to the demands of the men.

The workers have asked for an eight hour day, time and half for overtime and the continuation of the existing scale of rates for double compensation for different classes of services during the same working day.

The conference adjourned until later in the day, when the railroads will make reply to what is considered the ultimatum of the men, declining to consider the railroads' proposition, described as the "yard stick" method of compensation.

SUES OIL COMPANY FOR FATAL EXPLOSION

Sparta Man Starts Court Action Against Standard Oil Co. Over Alleged Violation

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Sparta, Wis., June 12.—A suit against the Standard Oil company and its agents has been started by George Keeler, in which the wife of a farmer was killed last winter. Mr. Keeler was burned so badly she died, and the house was burned down as a result of the fire which started when she built her kitchen fire. An explosion followed.

It is claimed that when the Keelers bought kerosene at Leon, the day before the explosion was put in their kerosene can. The can was placed in the kitchen and sat there over night, and the theory is advanced that vapor rising from the oil can, filled the room when the woman struck a match to light the fire, an explosion followed.

SHEBOYGAN FACTORY SOLD UNDER HAMMER

Bid of $250,000 Gets Bankrupt Chair Manufacturing Industry at Auction Sale.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Sheboygan, June 12.—H. L. Stern of the firm of Newman, Poppo and Stern, Lumber Exchange Building, Chicago, this morning bid in the plant of the American Manufacturing company, one of the largest chair factories in the middle west, for $250,000 at the trustees' sale, which will be confirmed at a meeting of the creditors this afternoon. The only other bidder was the German Bank of Sheboygan, whose highest bid was $245,000. The big plant was placed in the hands of the trustees after the company had filed a petition in voluntary bankruptcy at which time assets and liabilities were scheduled at $675,000. The appraisal, however, made for the trustees, placed the assets at $484,000.

BAKER SENT TO ST. LOUIS BY WILSON

SECRETARY OF WAR WILL BE PRESIDENT'S PERSONAL REPRESENTATIVE AT CONVENTION.

Leaves Washington Tonight Carrying Wilson's Version of Various Party Planks and Other Instructions.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, June 12.—Secretary of War Baker will be President Wilson's personal representative at the democratic national convention. He leaves tonight for St. Louis, carrying with him a practically complete draft of a platform, including several of the more important planks written by the president himself for consideration of the platform committee.

It had been planned to have the president represented by the man chosen to succeed him, Mr. McCombs as chairman of the national democratic committee. This selection has been delayed, however, and it was decided to send Secretary Baker.

Mr. Baker has been fully acquainted with the president's idea on every conceivable situation which may arise at the convention, and will keep in touch with the White House by telephone and telegraph.

Associated with him in looking after the president's interests will be Senators James Hughes and Stone, Representative Doremus and Frederick W. Steckman, publicity manager of the democratic national committee.

Fred Lynch, chairman of the executive committee, and Homer Cummings, vice chairman of that committee, also will keep in close touch with the desires of the president.

The president completed the tentative draft of platform planks in which he is particularly interested today, following conferences with various democratic leaders. Cabinet members already have sent to St. Louis drafts of planks relating to matters involving their respective departments. Emphasis was laid on the fact that President Wilson has no effort to dictate the exact phraseology of the platform to be considered by the platform committee, headed by Senator Stone. He is anxious that the document be kept as short as possible.

Prepare for Convention.

St. Louis, June 12.—Preliminary to opening of the democratic national convention, members of the national committee were here today to meet and pass upon final arrangements for the convention whose 1002 delegates are to name the party ticket. The committee has before it five contests, three of which involve the seats of national committeemen from the District of Columbia, Hawaii and Texas. Another contest embraces the party's senate representation. The delegates from the District of Columbia.

Supraffragists in Demands.

Supraffragists of the newly organized women's suffrage movement, the National American Women Suffrage association, today raised demands for two widely different actions on their issue upon democratic leaders.

The national organizations, headed by Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, insisted upon a declaration for suffrage in the democratic platform, while the women's suffrage movement, Susan B. Anthony's resolution by congress, her organization will declare war.

"There is no use to delay," Miss Martin declared. The party has voted in congress to pass this amendment if it so desires."

Tammany Delegation Arrives.

New York, June 12.—Between four and five hundred delegates and others constituted the Tammany delegation for the democratic national convention which left here for St. Louis today on three trains by as many different railroads.

ST. LOUIS COLISEUM
AWAITS DEMOCRATIC
GATHERING JUNE 14

Building Provided for Convention Will Seat 10,000 Persons.—All Arrangements Completed.
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

St. Louis, June 12.—All is in readiness at the St. Louis Coliseum for the democratic national convention, which will be opened on June 14. As arranged for the democratic gathering, the big hall will seat approximately 10,000 persons. The seating capacity is obtained as follows:

On the platform are 512 seats. In the section for daily newspaper correspondents and press associations are 172 seats.

Sections set apart for the editors of democratic weekly papers in Missouri and Illinois will accommodate 250 more persons.

Seats will be provided for 1,078 delegates and the same number of alternates, though there may be some slight change in these figures in the same states send extra delegates with a fractional vote.

In the boxes are seating accommodations for 246, in the arena balcony 2,494 and in the balcony 3,490.

This makes a total of 9,818. Extra seats placed wherever possible throughout the building bring the total seating capacity to about 10,000.

The building is so designed that there is room on the arena floor only for the delegates, alternates and the daily and weekly newspaper men.

The Coliseum is an octagon, considerably narrower at one end by a diagonal side wall. The greatest length of the building, from north to south, and its narrowest dimension, from east to west has been raised off for the platform and press sections. The platform is forty feet wide, and immediately back of the speakers' stand and the tables for tellers and clerks a platform rises extending to the rear of the upper balcony. This extension contains seats for 500 persons. These seats were distributed by the national committee, and the members of the committee and their immediate parties are to occupy most of them.

Around the arena floor on three sides are the boxes, which are reserved for specially invited guests—
party leaders of prominence and diplomats.

That part of the public which is not fortunate enough to have platform or box seats is to be accommodated in the arena balcony, which rises immediately from the boxes, and in the balcony, which corresponds to the second gallery in most public halls.

The total number of seats available for the public therefore, is 5,594, and the distribution of part of these is allotted to the democratic committees which raised the $100,000 convention fund.

On the west side of the Coliseum, back of the speakers' platform, are
the work rooms for the press associations and the telegraph companies.

As this space, as originally planned, proved too narrow to accommodate the press associations, an eight-foot passageway through this section was abandoned, and by order of the mayor
an alley in the rear of the Coliseum was vacated and covered with an awning. This serves as a passageway. A passageway under the platform leads from the press sections on the arena floor to the work and telegraph rooms in the rear.

Emergency Hospital Handy.
On the north side of the building—the Washington avenue side—is a large emergency hospital; on the south side are the rooms of the convention national committee, and on the east—or Jefferson avenue side—is the room of the sergeant-at-arms, and the convention postoffice.

The decorations of the Coliseum were designed by Edward C. Dill-man of St. Louis. In order to obtain as much daylight as possible, the walls of the Coliseum have been painted white. To get the full benefit of this reflection it was necessary to exclude decorations from the walls. The decorations accordingly, have been placed around the front of the balcony and boxes and on the supporting columns that run around the building.

Plaster relief medallions of Washington, Jefferson, Jackson, Cleveland and Wilson, each four feet by two feet, are placed on the supporting columns around the building, and each medallion is surrounded by American flags. The columns are covered with bunting, and the boxes are hung with the national colors.

To improve the light reflection, 6,000 yards of white muslin cover the ceiling, except for a strip down the center, which is hung in the national colors. Altogether 30,000 yards of bunting were used in the decoration of the convention hall and 600 to 700 American flags. The platform of course, is draped with bunting and flags.

Whitewater News

Whitewater, June 12.—Dr. D. O.
Kinsman gave the baccalaureate address last evening at the Congregational church for the high school senior class. It was an excellent address and the church was crowded to hear him. A quartet consisting of Mrs. F.
E. West, Mrs. L. R. Howard, Phil
Trautman and Harlow Smith furnished the music for the services.

Miss Clara Wadleigh spent Saturday in Milwaukee.

Mrs. G. M. Ferris entertained a dozen ladies Friday afternoon in honor of Mr. Ferris' aunt, Mrs. John Sercomb of Chicago, who has been in the city with relatives and friends the past week.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. George Charles will be interested in hearing of their home being made unusually happy since the adoption last week of a little daughter. She is, of course,
"the sweetest little thing" four months old, and her name is to be Theresa June Charles.

Mr. and Mrs. Niquet have been visiting at Edward Niquet's, in Milwaukee, since Friday.

The annual meeting of the Foreign Missionary society of the Congregational church was held Friday evening in the parlors of the church. Mrs. Aurel Baker gave the address of the evening, of her impressions of the missionary work in China and Japan. Music was furnished by Mrs. M. J. McGrew, who sang a duet, a violin solo by Margaret Winch
and a vocal solo by Miss Coral Kendall.

Refreshments followed the program.
R. H. Dixon and Mark Wadleigh were in Milwaukee yesterday.

The Whitewater team of sluggers batted the ball to all corners of the lot yesterday, and defeated Watertown by a score of 9 to 3. They started in the second inning and made three runs, and followed up in the third inning with four, and one each in the sixth and seventh. The visitors made one in the second when, with a man on third, a low throw to third by the pitcher was missed and scored two runs. In the third inning more runs were scored. A single and a twobase hit put a man on first and third.

On the next play the ball was shot to second to pull the runner off third,
and the runner made it high to O'Neil, who was lucky to stop at second, and the runner scored. The other run was made on a hard drive to second. This win still keeps Whitewater at the top of the league.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Kreuger of Philadelphia, Pa., are visiting at the H. C. Smith home. Mr. Kreuger is a teacher in Swarthmore College.

E. Matheson was a visitor here Saturday afternoon.

George Sprengel spent Saturday in Janesville.

Mrs. W. Earle of Edgerton spent the past week here at the home of her sister.

Harold Hahn went to Chicago Sunday to see the auto races.

Myron Hollis of the Soldiers' Home is visiting his niece, Mrs. Francis Lerwill.

Mrs. J. L. Pulton returned home
Friday from the Rebekah convention, at Racine.

Edgerton News

Edgerton, June 12.—Miss Doris
Clark, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
A. H. Clark, was united in marriage to Mr. B. A. Thomas of Minneapolis.
Saturday at high noon at the home of the bride's parents, the event being celebrated by the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Clark. The couple were married by Rev. Wm. Hooton of the Methodist church. After the ceremony a three course dinner was served to about thirty-five guests and relatives immediately after which the happy couple motored to Janesville where they took the train for Chicago and Milwaukee where they will spend their honeymoon.

The bride is an accomplished musician and is very popular with her many friends in this vicinity. The groom is engaged in Church work in the city department and is an accomplished singer. The community extends their congratulations and best wishes to the happy couple and may their lives be as happy and prosperous as their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary as that of Mr. and Mrs. Clark's.

Miss Hanna Hanson of Minneapolis
and sister, Miss Clara of Janesville, spent the week at the home of their sister, Mrs. John Linas.

Mrs. Soo McManus and daughters Ruth and Phoebe of Janesville are visiting with relatives at Fulton.

Lines of Defense
IN MACEDONIA TOO
STRONG FOR ALLIES

Offense Move on Part of Entente
Powers Unlikely at Saloniki.—
The Would Require Two Million Men.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Sofia, June 12.—In military quarters at the Macedonian front and in political circles here the opinion is expressed that the Associated Press correspondent that while an offensive move on the part of the Entente forces at Saloniki is not out of the question, such a maneuver would be devoid of all prospects of success if undertaken with fewer than 150 army corps, or about 2,000,000 men. Thus far the Entente allies have brought to Salon-ki about 350,000 effectives. With the addition of 100,000 Serbians the Entente contingent would still be below
a half a million men, a force considered here as being entirely inadequate to undertake the rehabilitations of Serbia.

The terrain difficulties which the Entente troops would be obliged to overcome are regarded as enormous.
In all cases the Entente troops would have to fight uphill. One or two advanted weak points in the Bulgarian and German lines are amply covered by stronger positions immediately in the rear, it is stated to the correspondent, so that a falling-back would be an entirely strategic affair.

Lines of Defense.
The Macedonian defense line runs in the main as follows: In the East it has the Cengiz Dag as its extreme point of support. These mountains are from 4,500 to 4,800 feet high, rugged and precipitous, and extend South, the direction of attack. Then comes the very narrow valley of the Struma, the defense of which can be carried out from the foothills of Belashitza Planina. West of this valley lies the mountain chain named single high crest some forty kilometers long, running due west. South of the range in question lies the valley and lake of Doiran, and slightly to the northwest of the Doiran and Yardar valleys the Blagusha Planina, in which the Anglo-French troops were defeated in the battle of Kostur-ino, in November, 1915.

The remainder of the line consists of the Padjah, Maritska, Blatec, Nidsho, Dobropolje Planinas and their valley of the Krakra river, southeast of Monastir, a terrain which so far has not interested the Entente troops very much. The Suhagora mountains very difficult, mountain country of southeastern Albania.

Lines of Advance.
Feasible lines of advance of the Entente troops are the Vardar Valley and the country about Doiran, the valley of the Krakra river, up to Ma-astir; and lastly the valley of the Struma. Only the first-named comes under consideration, however. To reach the Struma the Greek government would have to place at the disposal of the Entente troops the railroad line to Demir Hissar; and to advance towards Monastir the railroad to that point would have to be used.

The present Entente line is purely defensive. Its center is at Kukush, in Greece, thirty-five kilometers from lake Doiran. From there it sweeps in an arc towards the Vardar valley, where at the closest point of contact the lines of the two opposing forces are still 3,000 yards from one another.

This peculiar line of the Entente troops was established to prevent a surprise by the Bulgarian-Germans, in some quarters the view is held that it was dictated by a concentration reward, due to the transfer to France
of considerable French forces.

Country is Open.
Since the country between Kakush and the Bulgarian-German front is open, the Entente troops would have difficulty advancing to the opponent's lines. The situation has permitted the establishment of a line of entrenchments by the Bulgarian-Germans that may be said to have its equal only in the western theatre of war.

In reviewing the chances of the Entente troops to drive the Bulgarian-Germans out of Macedonia and Serbia, the what 400,000 Serbian troops could not do on the defensive cannot be undertaken by the Entente troops on the offensive unless an army of two millions is employed.

The Serbian army, despite its numbers and heroic conduct, failed to prevent Serbia falling entirely into the hands of the Central armies. This was due in part to the great flank attack executed by the Bulgarians, which endangered the Serbian army constantly. Entente forces advancing north would have to count with the same handicap, it is pointed out, and for this reason, no offensive from Saloniki can be successful, it is claimed, unless the Entente governments are ready to employ the large forces named.

Opinion is expressed here that the Central Group of belligerents must ultimately clear Saloniki of its foreign garrison, either with, or without the consent of Greece. Since Greece realizes that her Macedonian possessions will be placed in jeopardy if the Central Power troops eject the Entente forces from Saloniki and its hinterland, it is easily conceivable, ac-

AT BEVERLY THEATRE.

"The Family Stain" on Tuesday.
One of the most interesting characters and one of the most important in "The Family Stain," a late release by William Fox, is the part of Claudine Lerouge, who was the Widow Lerouge, about whom this famous and world story was woven. It took Mr.
Davis six weeks to find a woman who could properly handle this character at the end of his resources, when he discovered that it would be possible for him to secure the services of Miss Cecile Lee.

Miss Lee is an exceptionally talented young woman with a reputation that stretches around the globe. She has played in several big photo-drama successes, and played a big part with Blanche Bates in a comedy in the case. She also has an exceedingly big reputation in stock work. She is the daughter of William J. Gross, who for sixty-five years has been appearing on the American stage as a portrayal of Shakespearean drama.

AT THE APOLLO.

John Barrymore in "The Red Widow."
The intangible comedian, John Barrymore, will be seen at the Apollo on Tuesday in his new famous comedy,
"The Red Widow."

John Barrymore is at his best when portraying the role of a man who has been bereaved by every known form of mental agony, while still striving valiantly to keep up appearances and look cheerful in the face of the enemy.
The humorous part of this story is the fact that the police and the anarchist, whom he has feared most from the least of his real troubles. He cludes both of these with apparent ease, only to fall into the hands of his indignant wife who after seeing in jail as the result of his duplicity boils over when she gets him into her clutches and wreaks vengeance upon his guilty head.

In addition to the star there are three notable figures in the cast in Flora Zabelle, co-star of the original comedy production, George E. Mack and John Hendricks, who also appear in the film in the roles which they made famous on the stage.

The adaptation of the comedy is an elaborate and expensive one which has made possible innumerable am-plifications of the original story with exquisite settings and backgrounds that put to shame the painted canvas of the stage. From the beginning to end
"The Red Widow" is a screamingly funny production, worthy to rank as one of the few really great comedy classics of the screen.

RESTA SETS RECORD BY BEATING DE PALMA

TWO ITALIAN-AMERICAN DRIVERS, WITH FOREIGN MOUNTS, LEAD AT CHICAGO RACE.

RACE WON ON LAST LAP

Both Even When De Palma Is Forced to go to the Pits for Few Seconds.—O'Donnell Is Fifth.

A speed feud between Dario Resta and Ralph De Palma, two Italian-American drivers, was settled for the time being when Resta, with his big blue Peugeot, beat out De Palma in the last lap of the three hundred mile auto derby at Chicago Sunday, winning first place and thirteen thousand dollars. Many from Rock county attended the speed spectacle and those who had the good fortune to be present, witnessed the most spectacular and thrilling auto race in the history of speedway contests, and saw the world's record smashed when Resta went the route at an average of 93.7 miles per hour, a most amazing pace.

Three in brush. The two cream speed creations of De Palma, the Duesenberg of Eddie O'Donnell and Resta's prized Peugeot, went into the third to the last lap together, but with O'Donnell miles behind as they had out-lapped him early in the race. With Resta in the lead, Resta took the curve at a clip that must have been around 110 miles an hour and the two leaders drove, hood to hood, wheel to wheel, into the fatal lap.

When the two leaders received the signal from the pits that there were but two more laps to settle the feud, both prepared for the final test of nerve and steel. Resta failed De Palma, for as the two were hurrying around the upper curve, his mount barked a loud report and the little Italian knew that his old jinx had robbed him of an even chance for first place. With but two miles to go, he stopped at the pits, and disconnected one of his cylinders, that went wrong a mile back, and Resta swept past him and carried the title of France to a victory over the sturdy German Mercedes.

Resta Set Pace. Resta won, but he never was in such a race before. When the race started, Resta, Rickenbacker, De Palma and O'Donnell were the favorites. Resta took it upon himself to set the pace. He found a foe worthy of his steel in Eddie Rickenbacker, who was driving Ralph Mulford's Peugeot since the Indianapolis racing cars were withdrawn Saturday. For a hundred and twenty miles it was an even race. First one, then the other, would force ahead a few feet, as they made death defying springs in the battle for the early lead. Fickle fate favored Resta again. On the 68th lap, both slowed up and went to the pits, together. Resta wanted "gas" and oil. Rickenbacker lifted the hood of his motor and threw up his hands in despair, for a broken valve had made his motor useless.

De Palma had been holding back after trying to hold the killing pace. When Resta stopped a half minute at the pits, he caught up to him and as the two started for the turn, the famous finishing duel started. The turning point of the race came at the 250 mile mark. Resta had captured two five hundred dollar prizes for leading at the end of the 200 and 300 mile mark. A similar prize was offered to the leader at the 250 mark.

With their exhausts roaring and spitting fire, both drivers strained their mounts to force ahead to win the prize. On the back stretch, De Palma thundered ahead, taking the turn perfectly, beat Resta to the line by a good hundred feet. The effort, however, cost him the race, for it appears that the unusual burst of speed developed a mechanical fault that beat him.

Race Successful. Favored by clear, rather cold weather, the Chicago race was a success. Less the trouble was experienced and there was not a serious accident. After Galvin, driver of the Sunbeam, finished and was coasting around the course, he blew a tire on the back stretch and his car crashed into the heavy wall. Both him and his mechanical aid escaped with but slight injuries. The attendance was announced at 92,000 and during the last twenty miles of the race, almost every person in the grandstands was on their feet, at the exciting finish.

Barney Oldfield, the clear chewing veteran, lasted nine laps, when engine trouble forced him out. Before the 15th lap ten cars were docked in the pits out of the race, leaving eleven to finish. car and driver. M.P.H. Purse

SOX WIN GAME WITH ROCKFORD NINE, 2-1

Chilson Pitches Red Sox to Victory Over Rockford South Side Merchants at Yost's.

Al Chilson pitched for the Red Sox Sunday afternoon, and his heaving, along with a timely bingle by Spohn, won the game with the Rockford Merchants by the score of two to one Sunday at Yost's Park. The game was the best played by the Red Sox so far this season, and with Chilson pitching the Sox expect to start another winning streak.

Past work on the defense and sharp fielding featured the game. Neither side scored until the fourth, when both teams counted one run. The game was a tie until the eighth inning. With two down, Spohn scored Roberto from second on his single, winning the game. Chilson allowed but five scattered hits and struck out nine Rockford players. The Sox scored eight hits off McBates, and seven fanned. Next Sunday the Sox play the Hanover Giants at Yost Park. Frank McGinley, the Red Sox third sacker, was able to cover his position for five innings, and then was relieved by Dopp. The lineups follow:

Red Sox—Spohn, c; Chilson, p; Jackson, ss; Miller, 1b; Hill, 2b; McGinley and Dopp, 3b; Roberts, Kaskas, Viney, Dopp and Fullerton, fielders.
Rockford S. S. Merchants—Dennett, c; McBates, p; Rutz, ss; Bras, 1b; Sarne, 2b; Paden, 3b; Higgins, Forsyth and Devine, fielders.

Sport Snap Shots

MORRIS MILLER

Probably the oddest record ever made by a shortstop in a game was that by Buck Herzog of the Reds recently, when he had nine putouts at short and no assists. He caught five flies and handled four thrown balls to second for outs.

Mike McNally, thrown into second base by the Red Sox when Jack Barry was taken in, has done so well that talk is he will be left at the keystone, with Barry shifted to short when he returns. Barry has had a poor year, which is attributed to trouble he has had with a cold and with his teeth.

Outfielder George Harper of the Tigers is out with a broken leg. He tried to avoid spiking Pitcher Faber of the White Sox, who was covering the plate, and in halting himself tumbled. The break is not a bad one, but it puts Harper out for a month or so.

Charley Deal, third baseman secured by Kansas City from the St. Louis Browns, was offered to Toledo, but Roger Bresnahan refused to get interested. Kansas City will replace Art Bues with Deal, but the former will not be released until it is certain the ex-Brown can make good in Class AA.

Browning, pitching his second game for Spokane, was beaten by Seattle, though he allowed but four hits. It develops, by the way, that Browning is not exactly a new discovery. He has had a couple of trials previous to his signing with Spokane, in both the Coast and Northwestern leagues.

The Fort Worth club has released Maurice Dee, infielder, to San Antonio, in a generous effort to get that team going.

team going. Since Manager Leidy has picked up a few discards from other Texas league teams he seems to be going better. Fozold will be used by Fort Worth as utility infielder and outfielder.

Dallas fans, so eager are they to be rid of Joe Gardner, now propose to raise $100,000 to finance the ball club. Of this sum $75,000 will go to Gardner for his interests. The rest will be used in building up a team that will fully represent the best town in the Texas league, or what should be under popular ownership.

In a recent Tacoma-Vancouver game in the Northwestern league, won by Tacoma by a score of 12 to 8, there were 27 bases on balls, four hit batsmen and two wild pitches. Even the Detroit Tigers or the Philadelphia Athletics can beat this will they please write?

The Atlanta Crackers, with all their ex-Peds, do not look good, judging from these remarks by a Nashville critic: "The worst looking ball club that has invaded Sulphur Dell since the Chattanooga Lookouts were here a short time ago is the Atlanta Crackers. Charley Frank has the poorest lot of material that has ever represented an Atlanta club, and unless a whole lot of strengthening is done the Crackers are going to have a tough time remaining in the league. The only redeeming features are Catcher Perkins and Right Fielder Thrasher, both of whom are top-notchers, and who can be counted upon to help the Crackers considerably in their fight for a respectable berth in the Southern league race. In Perkins, the young backstop, Charley Frank has the class of the league, a youngster who is destined to invade the big tent. He possesses a peachy throwing arm, which means death to any would-be base stealer, and has been turning them around ever since he has been in the league. In addition, he handles all varieties of pitching in great fashion. Perkins looks better than any other catcher who has been in Nashville this season."

UMPIRE AIDS THE FAIRIES

IN WIN SUNDAY AFTERNOON OVER CHICAGO GUNTHERS

In a hatless game at Beloit yesterday afternoon the Fairies trounced the Chicago Gunthers, 4 to 0. Sam Pafferty pitched great ball, the only redeeming feature of the contest. He mastered the visitors early and with a two run lead, one garnered in the first and the other the third, rode easy throughout, with considerable assistance from his Ump. Although the Chicago team did not get much opportunity to kick at base decisions, the work of the umpire at the home plate came in for much hooting and criticism. When the visitors were at bat he failed to see Sam Lafferty pitching anything but strikes. Issuing a pass in the ninth and hitting two batters proved the downfall for the Chicago pitcher, and before the inning had finished the Fairies had shoved an additional brace of runs across.

TRAINED YOUNG PEOPLE FOR GOOD POSITIONS

Positions are always plentiful for the trained. It is the young men and women who have prepared to render better service—who have ability to do more, that are always in demand.

In times of financial depressions—when mills are closing and laborers walk the street—the trained men and women work on. In dull times business is too vital to depend upon the untrained. Big concerns must have experts—the TRAINED WORKERS—to pluck from barren fields sufficient business to keep open their doors.

In seasons of prosperity again it is the trained worker who is demanded. Business men are too busy—their time is too valuable to spend teaching young people HOW to work. They must have young men and women who already KNOW—who have the ability to think—assume responsibility—make decisions.

Big salaries are paid to those who prepare to meet the requirements. Thousands of men and women today are in responsible positions and in return are directing thousands of other people because THEY TRAINED TO SERVE. These men and women had no special advantages—no privileges.

Everyday Wisdom

By DON HEROLD

HOUSECLEANING
It is a woman's nature. We who have studied them and her, know.
They seem quiet, demure, pacific,
lovable, home-loving, and motherly.
But they are full of dynamite.
Once a year they get home-hating.
Once a year a woman has to shoot up her home.

A woman can clean house one week in the spring and be content to settle down and live a steady, sober Christian life the remaining fifty-one weeks of the year. The first, she dismembers the attic and all the closets. She turns them inside out into the main part of the house. Then she turns all the tables and chairs upside down in the middle of the floor and jumps up and down on them and shrieks in mad housecleaning glee. Then she jerks the rug out from under the mass.

This mixes everything
up beyond recognition. She shrieks some more. "Ha-ha-ha-ha-ha!"
When the man-husband of the wild woman comes home at night he is put to sleep in the upstairs hall on a mattress on the floor. He goes to bed with violins, records, shoetrees, spring hats, clothes hangers, picture hooks, curtain rods and chandelier castors. He knows he has married a Mrs. Jekyll and Mrs.
Hyde.

As Sherman has said, "Housecleaning is awful!"

Burns Manuscript Sold.
A Burns manuscript was the feature sale at a recent auction, for the benefit of the Red Cross, held in Edinburgh. The manuscript "To the Unco Guid," set in a glazed case shows some variations in the poem as printed. It is in good preservation, and is an excellent specimen of the national poet's bold handwriting. Tacked on to it are two separate lines, also in the same hand—"Farewell old Colla's hills and dales. Her heathy moors and winding vales." Bidding for the manuscript opened at sixty guineas. Eventually, however, it was knocked down at 124 guineas. The manuscript was gifted by two ladies whose grandfather acquired it in 1824.

More Than Probable.
In order to communicate with the people on Mars, the scientists tell us, all we have to do is to construct a series of ten mirrors, each 40 miles in diameter, and flash signals to the planet with rays of light. Then we may wait a couple of million years while the people of Mars, providing they are people and not pollywogs, figure out what we are driving at and then devise a way to answer us. The answer, when it does come, probably will be for us to mind our own business.—Kansas City Star.

One Ponce de Leon Missed.
The surest way to beat old man Methuselah's longevity record is to contract some reliable disease and die "immediately."—Boston Transcript.

Serial Bonds.
The "serial bond method" of discharging the principal of a debt by partial payments, may be made clear by reference to Benjamin Franklin's famous recognition of it in his will,
whereby he left to the cities of Boston and Philadelphia $5,000 each, contemplating the investment thereof for two centuries, the income in part to be loaned to young married artificers, who were to repay, "with yearly interest, one-tenth part of the principal."
The sinking fund method of long-term bonds similarly provides for the principal—not for the interest; a comparison between the sinking fund and serial bond methods as applied to a 50-year loan of $1,000,000
at 4 1/2 per cent, refunded or exchanged at the same rate, shows a difference in favor of the serial method of $425,- 000 for each million dollars, the interest, for which the sinking fund method does not provide, is the larger of the two items.

COMMON AMERICAN BIRDS

INTERESTING INFORMATION ABOUT THEM SUPPLIED BY THE BUREAU OF BIOLOGICAL SURVEY OF THE UNITED STATES DEPART-MENT OF AGRICULTURE

KINGBIRD
(Tyrannus tyrannus)

Length, about eight and one-half inches. The white lower surface and white-tipped tail distinguish this flycatcher.

Range: Breeds throughout the United States (except the southwestern part) and southern Canada; winters
from Mexico to South America.

Habits and economic status: The kingbird is a pronounced enemy of hawks and crows, which it vigorously attacks at every opportunity, thereby affording efficient protection to nearby poultry yards and young chickens at large. It loves the open country and is especially fond of orchards and trees about farm buildings. No less than 85 per cent of its food consists of insects, mostly of a harmful nature. It eats the common rose chafer or rose bug, and more remarkable still it devours blister beetles freely.

The bird has been accused of eating honeybees to an injurious extent, but there is little ground for the accusation, as appears from the fact that examination of 634 stomachs showed only 61 bees in 23 stomachs. Of these 51 were useless drones. On the other hand, it devours robber flies, grasshoppers and crickets, with a few bugs and some cutworms, and a few other insects, make up the rest of the animal food. The vegetable food consists of fruit and a few seeds. The kingbird deserves full protection.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Daily Gazette, June 12, 1876.—The street sprinkler's collision with a democrat wagon, upsetting the latter and doing two or three dollars' damage, will be a lesson to the driver of said sprinkler to take the length of his sprinkling apparatus into his estimate in driving along the streets.
As another accident from drowning has occurred, we would call the attention of the council to the feasibility of procuring grapnels or life buoys, or both, for the bridges, something that may always be handy in such a case as happened this morning. The cost will be small, and if but a single life is saved, it will be worth a thousand times more than the apparatus.
The arguments in the mandamus case were closed on Saturday and Judge Conger took the case under advisement.
A band of serenaders made sweet music for the dreaming second warders Saturday evening.
The warmest day of the year was yesterday.

Heart and Home PROBLEMS

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) What do you think of a young girl who is engaged and writes to other boys friends?

(2) What colors are becoming to a light complexioned girl with red hair?

(3) A girl friend of mine has told me that several boys like me, but that I seem cool toward them. I am not conscious of it. How can I overcome this?

(4) Is it all right to answer a gentleman's letter with a letter?

(5) Is it proper for young girls of sixteen and eighteen to invite young men to go to church with them? They have been keeping company with the young men.

(6) I have heard that vanishing cream causes rashes. Is there anything in this?

(7) LOVE AND SPOONERS.

(1) I have a question concerning the girl chiefly, but she ought not to go contrary to her fiancé's expressed wishes. Most girls do not care to write to other boys when they are engaged.

(2) Brown, blue, green and sometimes flesh color are becoming to red-haired people.

(3) Many boys will like you in spite of your "coldness," and some will like you for it. Being cold means that you are modest and reserved, and not "spooney," cherish the quality.

(4) Yes. Don't make the first answer too prompt or very long.

(5) It would be better to let the boys do their own inviting. They will go to church if they want to.

(6) No.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am twenty-three years old and am engaged. I have gone with this boy for five years and I love him with all my heart. My mother does not approve of him. I used to go with another boy who had more money, but I did not care for him at all. Don't you think that I should suit myself and marry the man I love? My mother likes the other man better. The man I love has a good position and I think in time he will make more money than the other, because he is careful and saving. What shall I do? BRUNETTE.

Marry the man you love. Love counts more than money when you have enough money to live comfortably.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been going with a young man for about a year and love him very much. Until two weeks ago my youngest sister has been away. As soon as she returned and he saw her he loved her. I was love at first sight. Now he doesn't care for me, but is going with her. I love him and can't forget him. What shall I do? VIRGINIA.

You cannot force the man to love you and so you may as well give him up. Perhaps his love for your sister is a temporary infatuation and in time he will come back to you. All you can do now is be brave and unselfish.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I went with a fellow for two months and we got along just fine. Before I went with him I went with a good many dances; then after I went with him I gave him up for dances. While I went with him he took a topaz ring mine, valued as a keepsake, although he did not know it. When I quit him I asked him for it in great many times, but he will not give it up.

(2) Do you think he still cares for me?

(3) Should I ask him for my ring again?

(4) You should not have allowed him to take the ring in the first place. Tell him that is of great value to you as a keepsake and that you will greatly appreciate the favor if he will return it.

(5) He may care for you, but I have no idea whether he does or not.

(6) Certainly, ask him again.

Don't Live in the Kitchen—Emanate yourself from kitchen drudgery by learning the food value and culinary uses of Shredded Wheat Biscuit.

You can prepare a most wholesome, nourishing meal in a few moments by heating a few Shredded Wheat Biscuits in the oven to restore crispness; then cover with berries or other fruits and serve with milk or cream.

Police.

Today she is to be married to Mr. Schmittberger in the center of a lake on the estate of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Richter, here.

Inspector Schmittberger and other inspectors and several captains of police will be present in uniform. So will Company G of the Seventh Regiment, N. G. N. Y., of which George Schmittberger is a member. After the ceremony the party will return to the Richter lawn for the wedding breakfast.

The best man will be Oswald O. Schmittberger, and the ushers Joseph Condon, Alexander G. Reason, Chas. Kramer, Jr., George Richter and Werner H. Schmittberger. The maid of honor will be Miss Gertrude F. Richter, and the bridesmaids the Misses Bonnie Halpin, Helen Messing, Genevieve Walters, Josephine Mosskill and Omia Joy and the whole party will be in boats in the middle of the lake.

"I'll have to send them at least five dollars this month," she thought. "I will have a talk with Julia and tell her that the bills must be made smaller next month. I'll cut out all candy, and I will not spend a cent for anything."

After this righteous resolve she went down to the postoffice, got a money order for five dollars and sent it to the firm. The resolve made her so light-hearted that she bought an ice cream soda and a half pound of candy just to celebrate the prospective freedom from debt. When the receipt for the five dollars had been tucked away in the drawer with the bill she was quite light-hearted over the whole affair.

On the tenth Ralph paid all bills and when she saw him come to the table on that evening with a cloud on his face she knew what was the matter and began marshaling all her charms to drive the cloud away. After dinner she brought a tiny stool and placed herself on it. She knew it was a very charming position. With her sweetest smile she looked up in her husband's face, clasping her hands over his knee.

"Don't look so sober, dear. Wasn't the dinner good?"

"It was some grand feed," said Ralph sincerely.

"I am so glad you liked it," she beamed on him. "I told Julia to cook the macaroni that way and to broil the steak rare." Ralph smiled in spite of his worry at her satisfaction in the infinitesimal share she had had in getting the dinner to his mind. He laid his hand on her golden head.

"Don't look this month than last," he began gravely.

"I am so sorry. I did all the ordering myself to make them smaller." A wave of tenderness swept over him. "She is like a child that in trying to help has done some great mischief," he thought.

"I suggested that, and it was kind of you to try, but I think you will have to learn how before you can be of any use in cutting down the bills," he said kindly.

"I am so sorry." Tears were slowly welling up in the blue eyes. Ralph kissed them away, while he tried desperately to think of some way out of his perplexities.

Marrying a Butterfly

By MRS. EDNA LEONARD

Ethel Gordon in a frantic endeavor to save money toward paying for the suit for which she had run in debt resolved to do all the buying herself instead of trusting it to the maid. The result was anything but satisfactory, for being utterly without experience she succeeded only in making the bills larger than ever.

She was tempted to buy an expensive dainty that was shown, for her appetite was voracious. Naturally as she did not work and took no exercise in the open air, nothing tasted very good to her. So fearful was she that Ralph would get the monthly statement from the Kansas City firm that she visited the postoffice after every mail until Ralph commented about it. She explained the matter by saying she needed regular exercise. When the bill finally arrived she buried it deep in the lowest drawer of her desk where it would have taken a detective to have found it among the jumble of papers. Every time she went near the desk she thought of the hateful bill and wondered how in the world she was to get it paid. She figured up the grocer's and butcher's bills from the stubs sent with the goods, never by any chance getting the same answer twice, until she was fairly feverish.

"I'll have to send them at least five dollars this month," she thought. "I will have a talk with Julia and tell her that the bills must be made smaller next month. I'll cut out all candy, and I will not spend a cent for anything."

After this righteous resolve she went down to the postoffice, got a money order for five dollars and sent it to the firm. TAKING CANDY AWAY FROM A BABY.

The meanest thing a mean man can do is to "take candy away from a baby," literally or figuratively.

A great many mothers who really worship their children do worse than that. They rob the baby of his birthright, for social or personal reasons, and substitute some artificial food, but right here is where the meanness of it comes in. The substitute food is a cheat food, a fake-food. Let us say it is condensed milk or some other kind of canned nourishment. For a doctor who ventures to intimate that it is not a suitable food for the baby only shows his ignorance. Look at the baby—as fat as a young hog! And know, for she raised fully fifty per cent of her babies by hand—grandma can assure the young mother that the baby is thriving on the cheat-food and that the young doctor will know more when he grows older.

Well, the big, fat, chubby, white, unhuman looking baby surely thrives on the non-nourishment. If mere flesh is his criterion, he may even have his picture published as a model of health, but our almost-food does for frail babies. His misguided parents are encouraged in the notion that quantity rather than quality is what counts in a baby. That is, unless they are ruled by enlightened by the matter-of-fact experts in a "better baby" contest.

But after a few months baby begins to sort of grow feeble and sickly. Somehow, he doesn't get along as fast as the neighbor's phenomenon, who has nothing but Old Doctor Nature's nourishment all through, or perhaps his plain cow milk. The doctor is finally consulted. Baby is found to be anemic, has a tendency to scurvy, is proaching rickets. Food fat, but doesn't make blood and muscle. Too much sugar to it. Not enough fat—none at all to speak of. Also, it is sterile, or nearly so—has lost its life in the can—lacks the something, we food essential for health and life, the something that causes security and other troubles in babies or adults who try to live for a long time on preserved, canned or any other than fresh food.

Mothers must bear in mind that just because a certain food happens to like with the baby, or because he son for assuming the food, must be suitable for his needs. These canned substitutes for human milk and for cows' milk are cheats, every one of them, from the baby's standpoint. Their proper field is this: To use temporarily when necessary to tide over an emergency. Of course, they are free from bacteria, and usually digestible, because they contain so little nutriment as prepared for feeding; hence are useful in emergencies where little food is needed. But no manufacturer has yet produced a substitute for fresh, pure, certified, pasteurized, or tuberculin-tested cows' milk for feeding babies.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Asthma and Sensitization to Egg Protein.

My sister, aged 62, writes a physician, suffered from almost constant asthma for many years. A persuaded her to submit to an operation for the removal of a septic focus in the pelvis in the hope that that might relieve the asthma, but it did not. Finally, she was given the egg test, with egg albumen and showed a marked positive reaction. She eliminated eggs from her diet, and the asthma disappeared permanently.

Answer—Egg protein, cat dandruff, goose fur, civet fur (cat), horse dandruff, dog dandruff and other animal emanations may be accountable for asthma.

SIDE TALKS

By—
RUTH CAMERON

THE GRIND.

I asked the niece of a neighbor of mine the other day what she thought of a neighbor girl who is in her class in college.

"She's a terrible grind," she said. "Exactly what do you mean by that?"

"She studies all the time. She makes no time for anything else."

"Doesn't she go in for any of the other college activities?"

"Oh, yes, grudgingly," but she always has her work done just the same."

It was evident that she regarded such a devotion to the purpose for which colleges were originally founded as a cardinal sin.

Look Down on the Grind.

If her point of view were unusual I shouldn't challenge it. But is it? Don't sixty per cent of the college undergraduates look down upon the student who puts his studies first and who succeeds in them by dint of good hard work?

The brilliant scholar is tolerated. If a man can get high marks without working, he is forgiven. But let him display that "infinite capacity for taking pains" which by some wise heads has been ranged above brilliance, and he is at once dubbed a grind and shunned.

Now do people look down upon a lawyer or a doctor when he succeeds because he has worked hard at his profession?

Household Hints

By MRS. EDNA LEONARD

REMOVING STAINS.

To remove iron rust from clothing, cover spots with hot stewed unsweetened rhubarb.

Red stains may be easily removed by soaking in sweet milk an hour before washing.

For coffee and most fruit stains, pour boiling water through the spots. For chocolate, cocoa or tea stains, wash in cold water.

Cover grass stains with cream of tartar, wet with cold water and place in sun.

For blood stains soak in cold water or water and salt; when nearly gone use soapy water.

Machine oil or axle grease should be covered with kerosene, washed with cold water and soap, then with hot water and soap.

Red or black ink stains should be washed with ammonia and water.

OLD STRAW HATS.

Put into 10 cents worth of alcohol 5 cents' worth of sheet shellac and let it stand until dissolved. Shake well. Pour a little of the mixture in a small dish. Take a tooth brush and brush the old straw hat, shaping the hat while it is damp. This will give the hat a newness in body and appearance. Be sure that you brush the hat free from all dust and pick all loose threads from it. This preparation will do for black, brown or tan hats and other colored shades. Be sure to use the sheet shellac.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

When driving a nail into a plaster wall, dip nail into hot water first. This will not break away the wall.

Traveler's Ink—White blotting paper is saturated with aniline black and several sheets are pasted together so as to form a thick paste. When required for use, a small piece is torn off and covered with a little water. This makes a good writing ink. A square inch of paper will produce enough ink to do considerable writing and a few days would be all that exploring party would need carry with them. As water is always available the ink is readily made.
